OPERATION WALLACEA EXPEDITION CODE OF CONDUCT

As a participant in an Operation Wallacea expedition we require you to operate within a Code of Conduct. This is not an attempt to 'spoil your fun' but most of it is just common sense and respect for others. Your cooperation is vital to maintain a happy working atmosphere for everyone participating in the projects.

Our policy regarding alcohol, drugs, and relationships is as follows, and by completing and returning the personal details form you are agreeing to comply with this Code of Conduct.

Alcohol

Our expeditions take place in remote and often dangerous locations. We are therefore extremely strict on the consumption of alcohol and implement specific site rules. For example in Egypt the local culture means that there is no access to alcohol in the desert and only very limited access in Dahab; in Honduras alcohol is banned at the forest sites and all countries have age restrictions for the consumption of alcohol. We therefore ask that rules relating to alcohol be observed at each site according to the instruction given by the in-country Opwall representative. Anyone disregarding the site rules or being drunk and intoxicated on expedition will be disciplined and may even be asked to leave the project.

Drugs

Operation Wallacea has a zero tolerance policy relating to drugs. Anyone caught in possession of illegal substances or anyone who is suspected of using them will be asked to leave the site immediately.

Relationships

Relationships between students and staff are not allowed, and relationships between staff and students under 18 years of age are strictly forbidden. These restrictions are in place to protect students, so please ensure that you adhere to them. Also please remember that the cultural expectations surrounding public conduct between two people in a relationship are different from country to country. For example, in Indonesia and Egypt public displays of affection between males and females are seriously frowned upon. Cultural expectations such as this will be explained at your induction meeting when you arrive on-site.

General Behavior

At all of the Opwall sites we ask all volunteers and staff members to remember that their behavior always leaves an impression, and therefore to try and ensure that that impression is a positive one. Please ensure that you follow the rules set by the site manager with regards to conduct at whichever site you are at, and if you are unsure of anything, don't hesitate to ask. We always try to ensure that everybody has the best time possible on-site, so if there is anything that you are unhappy with please do not hesitate to bring it up straight away with the site manager.
